

ACT 3 - RESOLUTION

(about a quarter of the length of the story)

The main character still gets a chance to overcome his/her challenge and succeeds in it. But first he/she must learn something about himself/herself, something he/she didn't understand when the story began.

● Climax

At the climax of the play, the main character either gets or lose everything. Often, victory does not come without losses, and the main character might also lose something at the same time important to himself/herself.

At the end, tell how the main character lives his/her new life and how it benefits him.
